Accreditation/APRs

The Public Relations Society of America maintains a national accreditation program available to members in the public relations profession. Accreditation is attained by successfully completing both a Readiness Review conducted by a panel of three peers and a computer-based examination.

The practitioner must demonstrate a general knowledge of the broad field of public relations, and must have a comprehensive understanding of his or her concentration within the field. A member who is “Accredited in Public Relations,” or APR, has achieved the highest status available to anyone in the public relations profession.

Those individuals listed as “Fellow PRSA” have achieved the APR status, in addition to being nominated and accepted into the PRSA College of Fellows in recognition of contributions to the profession and the community after 20 years of experience in public relations.

The West Virginia Chapter is pleased to have the following members who have achieved APR and Fellow status:

Bylaws As amended 2007

Article I – Name

The name of this nonprofit organization shall be the West Virginia Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America

Article II – Objectives

In accordance with the mission of the Public Relations Society of America, the primary objectives of this chapter shall be to advance the practice of public relations by uniting those engaged in the profession; encouraging continuing education of practitioners; playing an active role in all matters affecting the practice of public relations; formulating the objectives and interpreting the functions of public relations, and those who practice it, to the public; strengthening the relationships of public relations professionals with employers and clients, with government at all levels, with educators, with the news media and with the public; and encouraging high standards of conduct and public service. A strong secondary objective is to encourage and support the education of student practitioners and to help them become professionals within the field. In addition the society will seek to improve the relationship and understanding between member public relations practitioners and the people and industries with which they work.

Article III – Governance

Section 1. General. The Chapter is governed by membership-elected officers, directors and Assembly Delegate(s) who are guided in their actions by the terms and provisions of these bylaws and by the bylaws of PRSA. At the time of their election no one employer shall be represented by more than one officer or director. Officers or directors who change employers after their appointment and before their term expires shall not be covered by this provision. In addition to these bylaws, the Chapter, in an effort to retain continuity in operations from year to year, maintains a policy manual that, while intended to be flexible, covers many functions and aspects of the Chapter's operations. In addition to other specified duties, the Secretary maintains and preserves true and accurate copies of these bylaws and policies and provides the same to every member and other individuals upon request.

Section 2. Bylaws. The Chapter functions within the governance and bylaws of PRSA and under the laws and jurisdiction of the United States of America and the State of West Virginia. The finding at any legal and proper proceeding before the PRSA Board of Directors or before any court of the named jurisdictions that any provision of these bylaws is illegal, unconstitutional or in conflict with PRSA bylaws will render that provision section or article moot, but does not diminish the enforceability of the other provisions of the bylaws. Likewise, should emergency or unforeseeable conditions result in the temporary waiving of any provision or provisions of these bylaws by the Board of Directors sitting in a properly noticed proceeding, that action does not constitute waiver of any other provision of these bylaws and it does not prevent that provision or provisions from being later enforced.

Section 3. Policies. Actions by the Board of Directors that are designated as policy actions and other actions determined to have potential applicability or enforceability for a period beyond one fiscal year shall be deemed to be policies and must be included in the policy manual. These policies have the same force of governance as do bylaw provisions. While policies can be adopted, amended, temporarily suspended or abolished by a majority of those present and voting at any proper meeting of the Board of Directors, such actions require notice of such to all members of the Chapter by the first of the next chapter-wide newsletter or within 90 days by letter to all members of the Chapter. As is true for bylaws, the finding at any legal and proper proceeding before the PRSA Board of Directors or before any court of the named jurisdictions that any policy is illegal, unconstitutional or in conflict with PRSA bylaws or policies will render that policy moot, but does not diminish the enforceability of other policies. Likewise, should emergency or unforeseeable conditions result in the temporary waiving of a policy or policies by the Board of Directors sitting in a properly noticed proceeding, that action does not constitute waiver of any other policy and it does not prevent that policy from being later enforced.

Article IV – Membership

Section 1. Eligibility. To be eligible for membership in the Chapter, a person must be a member in good standing of the Society at the national level. Any such member of the Society is eligible for membership in the Chapter.

Section 2. Admission to Membership. Admission to membership in the Society shall be governed by the pertinent provisions of the bylaws of the Society. Any person admitted to membership in the Society shall become a member of the Chapter, if eligible, on payment of Chapter dues.

Future practitioners can take part in PRSA-WV Chapter activities and, once obtaining junior status or higher, can be listed in the PRSA-WV Chapter membership directory at no cost as part of the chapter's support for helping them find internships or employment. Members in this category are not considered voting members of the Chapter. Category 5 – Retired. Any member of the Chapter who has been a member of PRSA in good standing for at least five years and is gainfully employed for less than 50 percent of the time is eligible for retirement status. Members on retirement status shall enjoy all the rights and privileges of membership. Category 6 – Alumni.
